The following risk disclosure statements cannot disclose all the risks involved.

You should not rely on this information alone to make any investment decision. Before making any investment decision, you should read the relevant risk disclosure statement and be careful in evaluating your investment objective, investment experience, financial resources and other relevant conditions to see whether you are suitable for taking part in any investment. You should seek independent professional advice if you are uncertain of or have not understood any aspect of the relevant risk disclosure statement or the nature, risks and suitability of trading and investment.

Risk Disclosure of Securities Trading:

Investment involves risk. Price of securities is subject to upward and downward movements and may become valueless. It is likely that losses will be incurred rather than profits made as a result of buying and selling securities.

Risk Disclosure of Share Margin Financing:

The risk of loss in financing a transaction by deposit of collateral is significant. The Customer may sustain losses in excess of its cash and any other assets deposited as collateral with the Bank. Market conditions may make it impossible to execute contingent orders, such as "stop-loss" or "stop-limit" orders. The Customer may be called upon at short notice to make additional margin deposits or interest payments. If the required margin deposits or interest payments are not made within the prescribed time, the Customer's collateral may be liquidated without its consent. Moreover, the Customer will remain liable for any resulting deficit in its account and interest charged on its account. The Customer should therefore carefully consider whether such a financing arrangement is suitable in light of its own financial position and investment objectives.
